

Superdrug Appoints New Healthcare Director

Superdrug has appointed Ghada Beal as its new Healthcare Director.

Ghada joins the Healthcare division at a time when Superdrug has achieved consistent YOY growth across Health Retail, Services and Pharmacy and is committed to investing in 25 new stores and refitting 70 stores this year.

Ghada gained a Bachelor of Honours in Pharmacy at Sunderland University, and started her career as a pre-registration Pharmacist. From there she held various roles from Pharmacy Manager, Store Manager, Area Manager and Regional Manager, showing her talent for delivery through engaging and inspiring her team.

With 28 years of experience in Retail and Pharmacy, Ghada has most recently held the position of Retail and Pharmacy Services Director at Lloyds Pharmacy having previously spent twenty six years at Walgreen Boots Alliance. In her final years at Walgreen Boots Alliance, she held the role of Vice President, Director of Stores for four years.

Superdrug's Commercial Director, Simon Comins comments, "We have ambitious plans to continue to grow our Health Retail, Pharmacy, Clinical and Digital Services and Ghada's passion for exceptional standards and her proven track record for delivering for the customer will help us deliver our goals."

Ghada Beal comments, "I'm excited to join such a dynamic brand and business to help deliver Superdrug Health's strategic ambitions in Retail, Healthcare and Pharmacy. My background as a pharmacist has meant that health and wellbeing has always been essential to me and I'm keen to continue developing the ways in which Superdrug supports the diverse healthcare needs of all communities."

Ghada will be joining Superdrug on 7th August 2023 when interim Healthcare Director Caris Newson moves to her new role as Superdrug Head of eCommerce.
